Arlene Martel, who played T'Pring in the original series episode "Amok Time" died on August 12 following a heart attack. The veteran television and film actress had a career that spanned parts of seven decades, dating back to the golden age of television, but she was arguably best known for her role in "Amok Time."

Arlene Martel as T'Pring in "Amok Time"

The character -- Spock's betrothed, whom she spurns -- was a sexy, exotic presence in the episode, the first and only episode set on Vulcan. Martel had previously auditioned for roles in the episodes "Where No Man Has Gone Before" and "Catspaw."

Martel's other credits included the popular Outer Limits episode "Demon with a Glass Hand" (written by Harlan Ellison), the "Twenty-Two" episode of The Twilight Zone, Hogan's Heroes, My Favorite Martian, Bewitched, Columbo, Battlestar Galactica, Knot's Landing, A Walk to Remember, Brothers & Sisters, and Star Trek: Of Gods and Men.

Martel often spoke fondly of her brief but important visit to the Star Trek universe and noted the enduring popularity of "Amok Time," which remains a fan favorite. "It does hold up," she said. "If it didn't, they wouldn't re-run it as much as they do. I just saw it a couple of weeks ago. It's re-run almost more than any other episode, and it seems to be so popular because of the mating issue. To see a Vulcan in the heat of his sexuality is a very interesting thing.

Leonard Nimoy and Arlene Martel in "Amok Time"

It's interesting to see anyone in that situation, if the story is good, but to see someone who's usually so repressed going through it, I think that captured people's imaginations. I think that's the fascination about it. And then to see how this woman deals with that, and the decisions and choices she makes."

Lawrence Montaigne (Stonn), Arlene Martel, and William Shatner (Cpt Kirk) in "Amok Time"

"My performance, I think, holds up quite well, especially visually," she continued. "I didn't have that much to say, but I think you see me and my reactions, and my presence is felt. Looking at it, I can see why they cast me in that role."

Martel, who was also a regular on the convention and autograph show circuit, was either 78 or 80 years old depending on the source.

She had been married three times, and had three children. She was an animal rights activist who worked with Last Chance for Animals to prevent the selling dogs and cats for medical research, and had recently appeared in an HBO special investigative report on this subject.

IT'S THE CAPTAIN CALLING

This month started off with the USS DaVinci manning a membership drive table at the latest Comic Book Show held at the Coca Cola Space Science Center on Sunday, 03 August. Joe, Jeff, Martha, and Scott assisted with Jessie stopping by in the afternoon. Randy and Sandy worked outside operating a concession stand and at our Night Out generously donated $40.00 to the DaVinci fund from their proceeds! The day went by rather quickly with a couple of individuals speaking with us to show possible interest in joining but no takers this time around. There were a lot more attendees in costume at this event and most were independent cosplayers (which I am sure that Dutch was glad to see). Many thanks to all the DaVinci personnel who stopped by or assisted with the membership table. Here are a couple of photos from the event.

Jeff, Martha, Scott, and Joe and Jessie and Scott at our membership drive table.

The night out at Ezell's Catfish Cabin in Columbus turned out well. There were 14 crew members present and it was pleasant to see the Gaines family with us this month. We gave away the Captain's perks while waiting for our meals and Hal, Lech, and Scott's mom Gail won DaVinci hats. Randy won the Star Trek novel Sarek, Gloria won a Captain Picard 9-inch action figure, and Richard won a Kre-o Klingon Bird of Prey. The free meal this month was won by our newest member Scott! Congratulations to all the winners! Our food finally arrived and I think I made an entire meal of just the hush puppies. This was another great night of fellowship with the crew. Next month we will meet at Ci-Ci's Pizza in Bradley Park on Whittlesey Road on Monday, 15 September. Remember, DaVinci members get a free drink with the purchase of a buffet. Hope to see you there!

Gloria and Richard waiting to order and so too are Russell, Joe, and Hal.

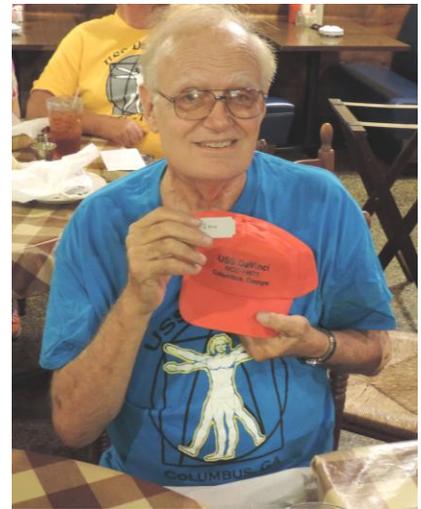

Jeff and Maratha and Gregory and Lech also wait to order.

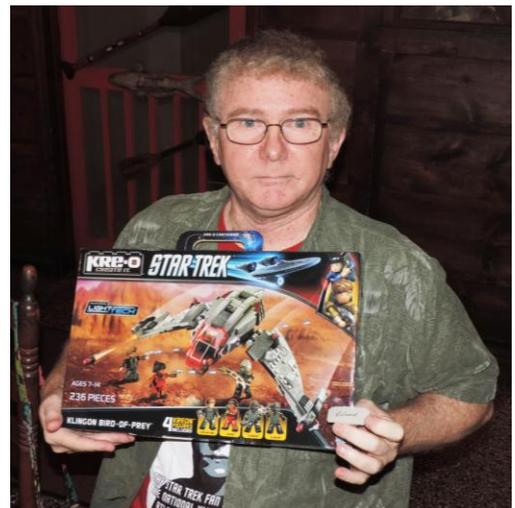

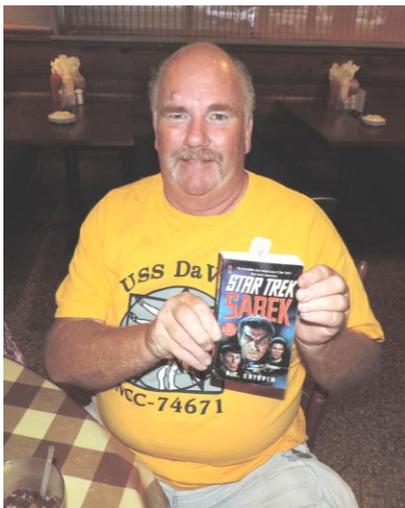

Sandye and Randy wait for their food while Russell discusses ship's business.

Freddy unexpectedly gets his picture taken and the DaVinci crew!

Look what we won – DaVinci hats: Hal, Gail, and Lech!

And we won too: Randy (Star Trek novel); Gloria (Picard action figure), and Richard (Kre-o Klingon Bird of Prey)

Hey, do not forget me! Scott won the free meal!

We are going to do something different for our annual Good-Bye Summer; Hello Fall cookout. Instead of an actual cookout we will be meeting at Ryan's on Saturday 27 September at 4:00 PM for an a few hours of great food, fun, and fellowship. We will still have door prizes and perhaps a surprise or two. So if you plan on attending please let me know so we can give fair warning to the folks at Ryan's. Thanks.

The Fan-Boy Expo is coming to Tampa, FL the weekend of September 12-14 and back to Knoxville, TN on the weekend of 7-9 November. There's still time to get tickets for Tampa and I would encourage everyone to take advantage of the Knoxville weekend if you can. Freddy and I went to Knoxville before and it was the most awesome con I have ever attended. You can get more info at: www.fanboyexpo.com.

The Geek Gathering is a con being held in Sheffield, AL (next to Muscle Shoals) on the weekend of 20-21 September. Diane and I are currently planning on attending and have been granted a free membership drive table for Starfleet. I will be sending out an email to the list-serves to other fleet members that may desire to help us out at this event. If you wish to participate you can get more info at: www.thegeekgathering.net.

Dutch will be holding his annual sci-fi mini-con at the Coca Cola Space Science Center in Columbus on Saturday, 04 October. The USS DaVinci will of course have our membership drive table available. He is also sponsoring the second annual Phenix City Toy Show on Sunday, 07 December. More info on these events as they get closer.

Lastly, I wish to remind everyone about keeping your DaVinci and Starfleet memberships up to date. There are several of our crew that have allowed their memberships to lapse and this will be the last newsletter they receive unless they renew by the end of this month. Being a member of the DaVinci and Starfleet can be a rewarding experience and we sincerely appreciate all of our crewmembers. Please take the time to renew today. You'll be glad you did!

That's all for this month.

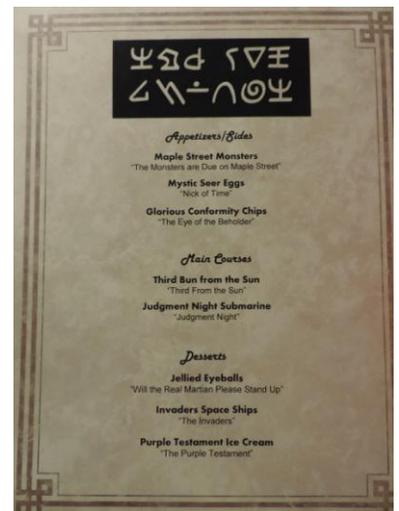

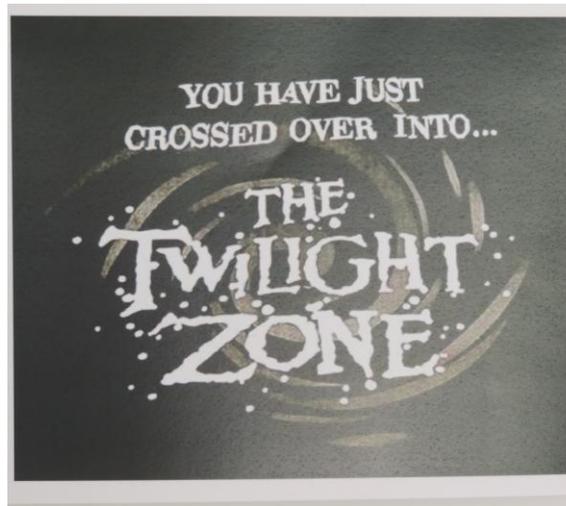

Warp speed ahead in 2014!

VADM Russell Ruhland

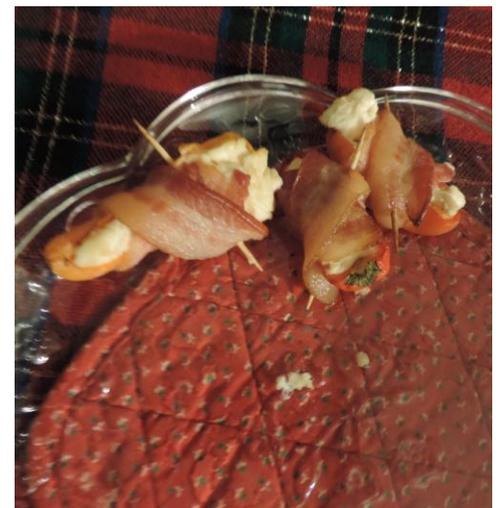

RECORDS ROOM REPORTING

Part II of the Twilight Zone Marathon was held at my house on Saturday 23 August. Although the attendance was not as many as I had hoped (only 7 total) we had a great time. The food – what can I say about the spread Connie laid out? I suppose incredible would do! Everything from jellied eyeballs to hamburger sliders to home made blueberry ice cream! The fun began at noon and we broke up around 6:30 PM after finally finishing season one. Yes, there will be a Part II, probably sometime in October. Stay tuned. Check out some of the photographs from all the fun!

The signs welcoming attendees and the Twilight Zone Marathon menu

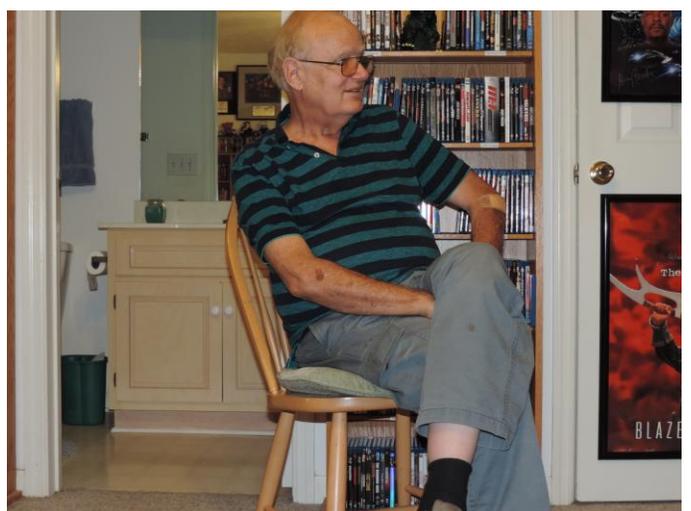

Some of the interesting items prepared by Connie: Mystic Seer Eggs, Glorious Conformity Chips, and Maple Street Monsters!

And let us not forget Judgment Night Submarines and for dessert, Jellied Eyeballs

Margaret, Lech and Gregory hit the two main courses and Todd watches Gregory fix his plate.

Margaret, Gregory, and Joe on the couch and Lech in his chair watching the Twilight Zone.

Freddy and Connie watching an episode and the DaVinci crew at the marathon!

Sigh. Someone take him...PLEASE!

A BIG Bajoran has to go out to Connie for her expertly prepared Twilight Zone goodies and to all who attended this fun-filled DaVinci event! Ya should have come!

Beginning in September (date to be announced) I will be hosting the very first Admiral's Poker Night! Yes, here will be your chance to show how good of a bluffer you really are. No money will be involved so you do not have to worry about that little issue. Everyone who attends will get a certain amount of poker chips and the person who has the most "money" at the end of the evening will lay claim to that month's poker champ and will win a prize. Each month's champ, for this will be a monthly event, will be noted and the one person who wins the most "money" after a yet to be determined period of time will win even greater glory! Right now I am thinking of hosting on Thursday evenings from 6:00 PM until 10:00 PM. Snacks will be provided. Oh, we will NOT be playing Texas Hold 'Em but more traditional games such as stud and draw poker. Even if you do not know how to play poker, come and join the fun and we will teach you how! How about sending me your thoughts, both pro and con.

TREKFEST 2014

The day was cool, and the voyage was long. But, the rewards outweighed the reasons of not going to 2014 Trek Fest in Riverside, IA. For years I wanted to go to this event, but could never get the time off to go. This year I made it a must to be there and celebrate the life and loves with my fellow Trekkers. There were a lot of things that I wondered and even were shocked to find at this small town. It will be my goal not just give you the common points, but tell you about the people that bless the town each day. “Hailing Frequencies closed. Warp Factor 1! Engage!”

I started my travel from the quad cities area around 6:30 AM. I wanted to leave no later than that due to needing to be there to help with the parade. I had never been to Riverside or even much outside of the QC, but felt that I had to be there this year. Not just to see my fellow Klingons, but to see this great town that paid birth to our leadership in James T. Kirk, Captain of the USS Enterprise. Luckily enough, I packed some pogie bait and head out. After a brisk hour and twenty minute drive to Riverside, IA I met up with some others fans and enjoyed their company and orientation to the city. At first I said, “Wow this is a small town. I hope that I did not miss anything. “ I made a quick stop to the local convenient store and got some gum! The attendant said,” Anything I can help you with? Are you from out of town?” I replied, “Yea, I have never been here before.” The attendant gave me some pointers on the sites and also told me some of the history. I was thankful that she could help me. That was really nice of her to assist me like that, because I was completely lost. I met up with the crew that I was going to join on their chapter for the parade. They made me feel right at home. I was nervous, but I am sure that they could see it.

I joined them in their walk of fame, so to speak. I looked around seeing the city with child eyes of astonishment. The reports I heard online and also from others did not give me a clear understanding of what was before me. This city lived by many of the values set forth by the Gene Roddenberry himself. We walked to the birth site of James Kirk. It had a nice rock monument stating the birthplace for him, behind a small salon. Next we went by Murphy’s and located on the pool table stated where Kirks mother and father met each other. It is unique that a pool table can be a good location for such wonderful surprises. Murphy’s, which is nicknamed the Shipyard Bar, had some of the best food that I’ve ever had. Boy was it full of people. Before to long, we headed down to the parade site where we would be helping out others by giving candy and spreading good will. At least the day was not too hot.

NEXT DAVINCI NIGHT OUT AND MEMBERSHIP MEETING WILL BE AT
CICI’S PIZZA (Bradley Park Drive)
ON MONDAY 15 SEPTEMBER AT 7:00 PM
COME FOR THE FOOD AND FRIENDSHIP!!

Here I am in Riverside, IA and inside the future home of the Shipyard Bar!

“X” marks the spot and a bench donated by William Shatner in memory of a local resident.

We joined the parade lead by Robert O’Reilly (Gowron) and J.G. Hertzler (Martok) of Deep Space Nine fame. Man was it a total honor and a big thrill to see them. I am sure that Kahless was looking from Sto-Vo-Kor and seeing these to mighty warriors leading the parade. Gowron being a thinker was always looking at the others. The float they rode throughout the parade was definitely the talk of the parade. Various companies and Star Trek chapters from around the area came to show their ships colors. Nobody could stop us, not even the Borg queen herself.

Just a few of the really nice floats in the parade.

After the parade many of the attendee's had their pictures taken at the birth site. The line was around the building and even down the ramp. Throughout the day there was various activities for everyone: small carnival with lots of rides for the kids and costume and trivia contests for the adults. Even Robert O'Reilly and J. G. Hertzler gave a show, which rocked the house at Murphy's bar. By far this was an event to remember, and especially for me. It is a place that I need to revisit as often as possible.

USS DAVINCI IN PICTURES

The following is a trip down the USS DaVinci memory lane. Each month I will show a series of photographs from our very beginning, as the Shuttle DaVinci, up until the present time. Many of you will remember these faces. To others they will be complete strangers. But, they made the USS DaVinci what it is today. Reminiscence. If you have any photographs that you would like to see published in the Pilot, feel free to send them to me with a brief explanation as to who is in the photo and when and where it was taken. If I get a name wrong, please let me know! Okay, here is Part I from our 8th annual 4th of July 2006 cookout.

Connie hard at work cooking the goodies and Diane keeping her company on the patio.

The crew digs in and Randy, Rebecca, Lisa, Russell, and Diane enjoying the burgers and dogs!

Meanwhile in the kitchen Joe and Benlee and James, Todd, and Park enjoy their meals as well.

Folks from the USS New Hope joined us and Rebecca goes for seconds!

In next month's Pilot, part II of the 8th annual 4th of July cookout!
