STARFLEET NEWS YOU CAN USE

Sir Patrick Stewart announced his retirement at age eighty-five. Avengers: Doomsday, which is scheduled for release next year, will be his final screen appearance. Stewarts theatrical career spans sixty-six years, and includes notable roles both on stage before a live audience, and in various television shows and movies. His portrayal of Captain Jean-Luc Picard in the Star Trek franchise is perhaps his most famous role. He also played Professor Xavier in the X-men movies, performed in Shakespeare's plays, done voice acting for animated films, and won numerous awards across the span of acting career. Stewart has certainly earned his retirement after a lifetime performing such iconic roles.

LEGO has recently unveiled their USS Enterprise NCC-1701-D model set. It comes with 3,600 pieces to build the ship, as well as figures representing Captain Picard, Commander Riker, Lieutenant Commander Data, Lieutenant Commander La Forge, Lieutenant Worf, Counselor Troi, Guinan, Dr. Crusher and her son Wesley. Each figure has an accessory, the most adorable of which is Data's cat, Spot. The set will be available for sale starting November 28 for Black Friday, and currently has a listed retail price of $399.99.

I love this - not least because it looks like something a civilization might produce after a violation of the Prime Directive.

COSPLAY & CRAFTS

There's no "How To" tutorial for this month, but I stumbled across a c project that demanded to be shared. Posted to the "I love to 3D Print" group on Facebook by Donielle Purdue, this Thanksgiving centerpiece combines traditional holiday foods and our favorite Federation starship. So everyone feast your eyes upon the Starship "Enterpies."

Our Thanksgiving table centerpiece; the Starship "Enterpies."

My parents raised us on Star Trek. I never thought I'd be so geeked out over a print, but here we are.

REPLIMAT RECIPES

Thanksgiving is swiftly approaching, and one of the key elements that everyone looks forward to is the dessert. Yes, the turkey is the dinnertime star, and the sides all shine in their own way, but the grand finale can truly make or break a holiday meal. You want to end the culinary performance on a high note. But which dessert to serve? There are so many traditional options. Pumpkin pie, apple pie, sweet potato pie, carrot cake, german chocolate cake...the options seem endless. But there's one dessert that Star Trek fans will always remember. One of Trip Tucker's favorite foods, Pecan Pie. When my family gets a craving for this nutty, gooey deliciousness in a pie crust, we reach for the family cookbook, and bake the pie of my ancestors.

Sallie Mae Wilson's Pecan Pie

Ingredients:

½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
3 eggs
1 cup white Karo syrup

1 teaspoon vanilla
Dash of salt
1 cup pecans (halves preferred)

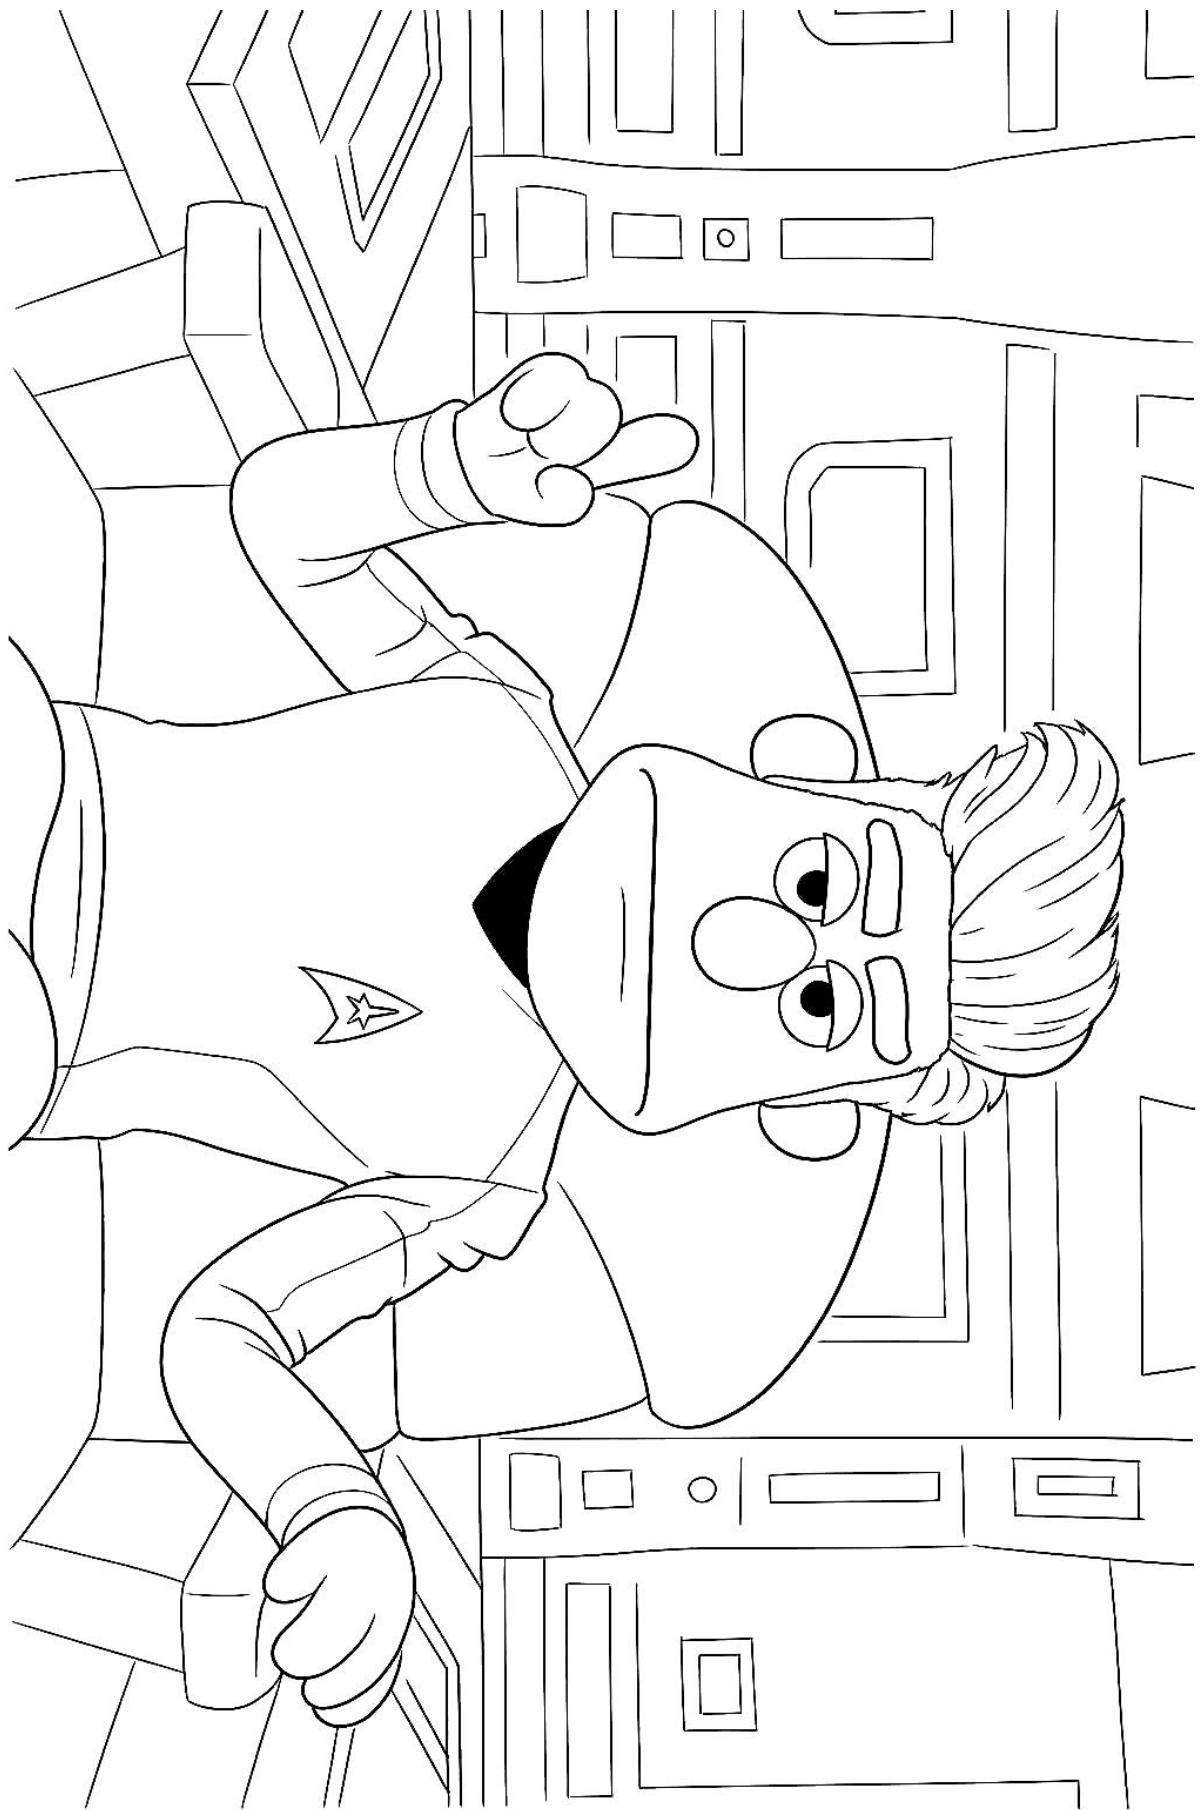

Directions:

- Beat eggs; add sugar, butter, syrup, vanilla, salt, and pecans.
- Pour into unbaked pie shell.
- Bake at 300F for 50 minutes to one hour.
- Remove from oven and let cool before serving.
